What is Rosemary Lake, you asks? I don't know. This is something we, as a team, will be something that we figure out together. It's in Needham, that we know for sure. There is a log to push around, that is also for sure. Whether or not we will make it there to do said log-pushing, that is up in the air. Not thrown up in the air, obviously. What do you think I am. I meant it more in the figurative sense, like you're not sure where its going to land. Actually, I don't even know where that term comes from, that was just my artists interpretation.

Now, if you've had enough of the space-filler, onto the real information. Rosemary Lake is indeed a lake, not a pond. This means there is an outlet as well as an inlet. That is the difference between a pond and a lake, ponds only have an inlet. Sweet! Sounds like a plan, see you guys tomorrow / today / 6 months ago if you just found this.

ROSEMARY LAKE

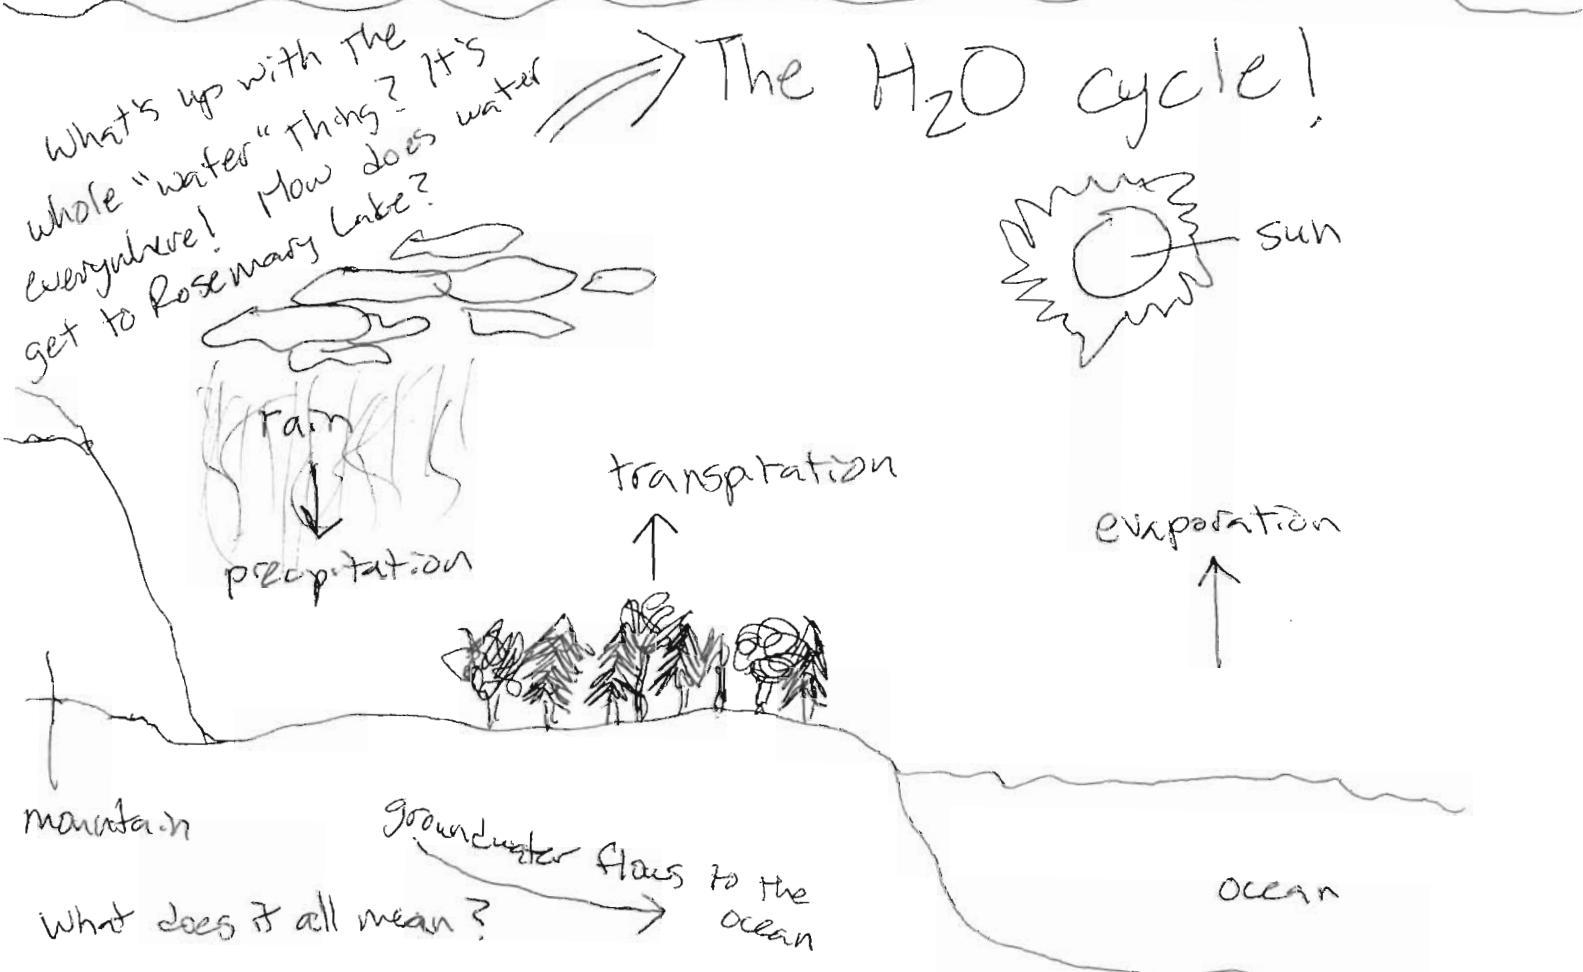

Leader: Julie (964-7248)

Date: July 17th, Tuesday Trip #9

Meet at: Brown Middle School

Equipment: field kit, humungous lunch + snacks, lots of water (at least 2 quarts), sunscreen, boots, raincoat

Hi! It's Jeff, but pretend I'm Julie. Rosemary Lake is located in Needham and is fed by Rosemary Brook. The crazy thing about Rosemary Lake is that there is a swimming pool built inside the lake! How do you think that would affect the wildlife and nature inside and around the lake? Hopefully, we'll do some water testing there and see if the results can give us a clue.

Get ready for a great trek into the mysterious depths of Needham!

On Monday we'll visit Rosemary Lake, a body of water with quite an interesting history...

Eutrophication will be the topic of the day, and you'll also get a chance to practice your balancing skills, if you want. It's a long hike, so be prepared to do some serious walking! Bring lots of water!

WHEN: 9AM - 4PM - WEDNESDAY, JULY 16, 2003

WHAT: FIELD KIT, RAIN GEAR, BOOTS, LUNCH, WATER, ONE OF THOSE OCTOPUS HEAD MASSAGE THINGIES

WHERE???: THE QUESTION YOU'VE ALL BEEN WAITING FOR... OR ASKING... OR SOMETHING. ANYHOO, WE'RE GOING TO A PLACE IN NEEDHAM CALLED ROSEMARY LAKE, WHAT KIND OF PLACE IS IT? A LAKE. WHAT'S THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN A POND AND A LAKE? WELL, I'LL TELL YOU.

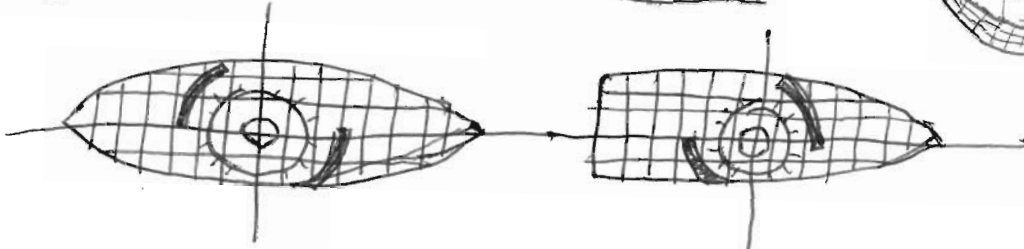

AS IT TURNS OUT, A POND HAS EITHER SOME SORT OF INLET OR OUTLET, WHILE A LAKE HAS BOTH AN INLET AND AN OUTLET.

GETTING CONFUSED BECAUSE YOU CAN'T THINK OF ANY BODY OF WATER THAT RUNS INTO OR OUT OF YOUR FRIENDLY NEIGHBORHOOD LAKE, E.G. CRYSTAL? WELL, THAT'S BECAUSE THE INLETS AND OUTLETS CAN OFTEN BE UNDERGROUND! WHAT DO WE CALL A STILLWATER BODY THAT HAS NO INLETS OR OUTLETS? A PUDDLE. HA!

QUESTION OF THE DAY: IS IT FASTER TO GET TO NEW YORK, OR BY BUS?

YOUR MISSION IS...

What to bring: lunch, lots of water, boots, field kit, ^{giant squid}

On the morrow, you, Jeff, and I will set off for Rosemary Lake, a body of water in nearby Needham. The journey will be a long and treacherous one (not actually treacherous), so come prepared: bring all of the stuff on the equipment list (esp. water). Rosemary Lake has been through a lot in the past decades ⇒ in the 1970's it was the unfortunate victim of human-induced eutrophication, and cleaning it up has not been fun. Can you tell me what the effects of eutrophication are? If not, we'll go over that tomorrow. Anyways, do you know what's cool/weird about Resem. Lake? I'll tell you tomorrow.

In case of emergency, your child will be brought to: Newton-Wellesley Hosp.
